

You Might be Arrogant If . . .

. . . your head has grown so large, you no longer fit through doorways.

. . . all the mirrors in the car point to you.

. . . you were voted in school “most likely to marry yourself.”

. . . you gave framed photos of yourself to your family and friends as Christmas presents.

. . . when people call you arrogant, you deny it, saying, “I can’t be, because that’s a flaw, and as you can tell, I’m flawless!”

. . . you think that you are the center of the earth’s gravitational pull.

. . . you refer to Me, Myself, and I as the holy Trinity.